

Joe Corbett Joins Savannah Program

In just a few months, postal credit union leaders from across the country will gather in the charming city of Savannah, Georgia for NCPCU's 32nd Annual Conference. A highlight of the program will be having USPS CFO and EVP Joe Corbett to bring the group up to speed on the Postal Service's financial outlook and future plans. Corbett was named to his current position in February 2009, where he reports directly to newly-appointed Postmaster General Megan Brennan. In his role, Corbett heads the organization's Strategy, Finance, Treasury, Accounting, Supply Management, and Regulatory Reporting functions. He also is a member of its Executive Leadership Team and Chairman of the Investment Review Committee.

Corbett has more than 25 years of experience in strategy, financial planning and analysis, accounting, SEC and financial reporting and banking and capital market transactions. He began his career working for more than a decade with Big Four accounting firm, KPMG, then spent more than ten years serving in senior management roles at three multi-billion dollar commercial companies. Corbett's success as a transformational leader in complex environments and accounting situations aligns with the financial needs unique to the Postal Service.

Corbett graduated with honors from George Washington University, where he received his bachelor's degree in business administration and was later admitted to the GWU Athletic Hall of Fame in 1998. Corbett is a member of the Greater Washington Society of CPAs, has chaired Sarbanes-Oxley (SOX) and Retirement Plan committees, and was previously a director on the boards of two private companies.
